DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

THE Public are CAUTIONED against the unfounded statement frequently made, "that the composition of CHLORODYNE is known to Chemists and the Medical Profession." The fact is, CHLORODYNE was Discovered and Invented by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE (ex Army Medical Staff), and so named by him, and it has baffled all attempts at analysis by the first Chemists of the day. The method and secret of the preparation have never been published. It is obvious, therefore, that anything sold under the name, save Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, is a spurious imitation.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. WOOD stated that Dr. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effect and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensively, using it in great quantities in the following diseases :—Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colics, Coughs, Asthma, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Cramp, Hysteria, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM MEDICAL OPINIONS.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians, and J. T. Davenport, that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, Dec. 31, 1864.

From A. Montgomery, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay :—"CHLORODYNE is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthma, and Dysentery. To it I fairly owe my restoration to health, after 18 months' severe suffering, and when other remedies had failed."

Dr. Lowe, Medical Missionary in India, reports (Dec., 1865) that in nearly every case of Cholera in which Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE was administered, the patient recovered.

Extract from Medical Times, Jan. 12, 1866.—"CHLORODYNE is prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practitioners. Of course it would not thus be singularly popular did it not supply a want and fill a place."

CAUTION.—None genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Sole Manufacturer.—J. T. DAVENPORT, 33, GREAT RUSSELL ST., BLOOMSBURY, LONDON.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

COTTON, &c.

Reuter's message of the 18th instant repots the Liverpool market as closing dull, with Surats also dull ; and though there has been no alteration in the quotations of ready Cottons, arrivals have fully declined ½d. per lb. Fair Dhollerah stands at 5½d. per lb.. Comptwittee at 5½d., Orleans at 5 5/16d., and Mid Uplands at 16½ cents. The sales of the day are again 12,000 bales, of which 3,000 are on account of speculation and forexports, and of which 3,500 are Surats. Imports at Liverpool amount to 15,000 bales and those at U. S. ports to 21,000 bales. Piece-goods continue quiet, and a further decline in prices seem to be quite probable. The markets for Coffee has closed steadier at a better heavy fall in prices. Calcutta Linseed remains unaltered, but there is a fall of 6d. in the price of Rapeseed, which now stands at £51. Cochin Cocoanut Oil has advanced to £49, but there has been a decline of 10s. in the price of Ceylon Oil. Our Calcutta message of the 16th instant has nothing of any special interest except a small further advance in the price of Government Paper. The Cotton market here has in consequence of the decline in arrivals been slightly dull, and prices show a decline of Rs. 1 to Rs. 2 per candy. Exporters are, however, operating very freely, consequently large important purchases have taken place on European account, consisting chiefly of M. G. Broach, Comrawuttee, and Dholleral. The following are our closing quotations :—

THE BOMBAY RIOTS.

STATE OF THE TOWN.

It is satisfactory to find that everything remains quiet in the native town: indeed, were it not for the unusual sight of the soldiers mounting guard it would have been impossible to have noticed anything abnormal in the appearance of the streets yesterday. Extra precautions will be taken to-day to prevent anything like rioting, as it is the Mahomedan Sunday and the mosques are likely to be more than ordinarily crowded: extra guards will be posted in the neighbourhood of these buildings. Mr. Pedder, the Municipal Commissioner, the Hon. Narayen Wassodew, and Mr. Byramjee Jeejeebhoy have been going about amongst the Parsees and using every endeavour to reassure them and quieten their apprehensions. Much benefit is expected to ensue from the meeting of Wednesday evening, as the leading members of both the Mahomedan and Parsee communities are doing all in their power to bring about a better feeling between the two races. A correspondent offered a very good suggestion in our issue of yesterday with respect to stationing some of the military at Mazagon with a view to prevent Seedees landing from the native craft, and we hope that it may meet with a favourable response. Great anxiety is still felt by the Parsee residents of the Fort as to this Prevention of course is better than cure, and though their fears may be unfounded or exaggerated, it would be well not to risk the possible irruption of a number of these reckless marauders into the Fort whilst the military are all at the opposite end of the town. There is now a considerable force assembled in Bombay, and it is reasonable to suppose that the disaffected will be overawed by their presence.

FURTHER PRECAUTIONS.

Last night a detachment of Artillery with two guns, under Lieut. Boddam, R.A., was posted at the Byculla Railway Station; also 50 men of the 68th Regiment under Captain Boulderson and 50 men of the 21st N. I.—the whole under the command of Major Gayer, S.C., with Major Ducat second in command; their orders being to bivouac there, returning to their quarters at 6-30 A.M. this morning. A detachment of the 2nd Queen's was also posted at the Grant Road Railway Station with similar orders. A piquet of 25 men of the 8th N. I. under a native officer were posted at Mazagon, and Major Prendergast Walsh was stationed at the Baboola Tank with 25 men of the Native Infantry. The force at Byculla will be replaced this evening by that stationed at the Grant Road last night and vice versa. The passage of these troops through the native town, and especially of the Artillery—their destination being known—is calculated to have a good effect upon the native mind, reassuring those who are in fear of an outbreak and showing the turbulently disposed how futile any hostile display on their part would prove. The troops are acting as an auxilliary to the civil power, and the officer commanding has orders not to fire unless called upon to do so by a Magistrate.

WANTON DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY.

On Sunday night a number of Arabs and Seedees broke into a liquor shop kept by a Parsee in New Memonwada Street which is principally inhabited by Mahomedans. The casks were staved in, bottles smashed, and the liquor was allowed to run to waste, not any of it being drunk by the mob. Everything in the place was destroyed, and the loss to the poor fellow is estimated to be between three and four hundred rupees. A native constable was witness to the whole affair but did not offer to interfere, though appealed to by the bystanders. Unsupported, however, he could have offered little beyond remonstrance, as it is not likely that the ruffianly mob would have hesitated to take vengeance upon him if he had offered any active opposition.

RUMOURED DISTURBANCE AT TANNA.

A RUMOUR was current at Tanna on Wednesday that an outbreak was impending, and the authorities communicated the fact by telegraph to Bombay, whereupon a detachment was ordered to be in readiness to start for that place at a moment's notice, and a special train was held in readiness to convey the troops should they be required. It would seem, however, that there were really no grounds for fear, as no further demand has been made for the services of the troops, and, moreover, some of the Tanna Police arrived in Bombay yesterday to do duty here.

THE GOVERNOR IN THE NATIVE TOWN.

On Wednesday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, His Excellency the Governor with his staff visited several parts of the town. H. E. first went to Khetwady, afterwards to Kalbadevi, and thence to Shaik Abdool Raymon Street and other places. While in Shaik Abdool Raymon Street several Parsees went up to the carriage of H. E., and besought him to inspect their houses, which had been ransacked by the Mahomedan rioters. His Excellency's Aide-de-Camp said there was no necessity now to look at the houses.

IMPORTANT EXPLANATION REGARDING THE RECENT NOTIFICATION.

On Wednesday, Mr. Souter, the Commissioner of Police, called a meeting at the Mazagon Police at which a large number of Mahomedans were present. He impressed upon them the necessity, of preserving order and peace during the Mohurrum Festival, and read to them the notification of the Bombay Government with regard to the stoppage of the Mohurrum processions this year. He told them distinctly, it is said, that it was not the object of the Government to interfere in any way with the Mahomedan religion; and Mussulmans might, if they thought proper, make taboots and punjas in their own houses, but that they would not be allowed to go about with them in public.

HOW THE MAHOMEDANS ARE INSTIGATED.

A Hindu, correspondent of the Bombay Summachar writes—On the 17th inst., about half-past 4 P.M., while I was passing along the Null Bazaar Road, I saw a Mahomedan, standing in the corner of a one-eyed Mahomedan, in front of a Mosque, and preaching to several of his co-religionists. I was anxious myself to hear him. Consequently I stood on one side of the road. The Mahomedan spoke to the following effect—

"Brethren,—A Kaffir wrote a slanderous book against our Prophet, and therefore our co-religionists have created disturbances. The English arrested the Mahomedans and confined them; while they allowed the Kaffirs (meaning the Parsees) go free. From this I beseech my countrymen to fight bravely, without fear either of their lives or property, to release those who are in custody. I say this openly and without any fear. I say this for the sake of my religion. I will not fear if I may be taken up by the Sircar. God will help you if you will help your countrymen."

MISCELLANEOUS.

YESTERDAY a Bombay Government Gazette Extraordinary contained the following notification:—

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 19th February 1874.

Whereas it has been found necessary to station troops in different quarters of the city of Bombay for the preservation of the public peace during the Mohurrum festival, and it is desirable that in the event of such troops being called on to act for the suppression of a riot, a Justice of the Peace should accompany them. The following gentlemen have been selected for that duty, and have been requested to place themselves in communication with the proper military authorities:—

Mr. E. W. Ravenscroft.	Surg.-Major J. Lumsdaine.
Mr. J. B. Peile.	Mr. E. Cordeaux.
Mr. W. G. Pedder.	Mr. H. E James.
Mr. F. K. S. Wyllie.	Mr. W. Loudon.
Major A. T. Moore.

By order of His Excellency the Governor in Council,

C. GONNE, Secretary to Government.

Up to Wednesday evening there were eighteen Mahomedans and ten Parsees at the Jamsetjee Hospital, who were more or less injured in the riots.

On Wednesday night, about 8 o'clock, a large crowd of Arabs collected at the end of Butcher Street and Moorghee Mohla on the verge of the Esplanade, opposite the Crawford Market, for the purpose of holding a meeting. The cavalry patrol coming up at the time, the Arabs, on seeing them, at once dispersed and fled in all directions.

THE MEMORIAL OF THE PARSEES.

MAZAGON CASTLE, 18TH FEBRUARY.

To the Right Hon. Sir P. E. WODEHOUSE, K.C.B., Parell.

My Dear Sir,—In handing you the enclosed Memorial signed by Parsee high priests, trustees of Fire Temples and other religious places, and some of the leading members of the Parsee community, I may mention that this Memorial was drawn up on Monday last, the 16th instant, and has been delayed in consequence of the signatures being required.

I am happy to observe from your Excellency's speech at the Convocation yesterday, and from the military preparations are being made, that the suggestions contained in the Memorial have been in a great measure anticipated by your Excellency, for which we feel thankful; and we hope that the military force will not be withdrawn until tranquility is completely restored. I would draw your Excellency's special attention to the last para. of this Memorial and trust that the suggestion as to the patrolling of the Parsee streets by military and the guarding of all Fire Temples and the Towers of Silence be carried out. With best respects, believe me to remain your faithful servant,

(Sd.) JAMSEHJEE JEJEEBHOY.

To His Excellency the Honourable Sir PHILIP E. WODEHOUSE, K.C.B., Governor and President in Council, Bombay.

The Humble Petition of the principal Parsee inhabitants residing in Bombay.

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH.

That on Friday, the 13th instant, a very disgraceful attack was made by a mob of Mussulmans upon Parsees residing in the neighbourhood of Shaik Abdool Raymon street and the Bheendy Bazaar in Bombay. The rioters also at the same time attacked the religious place belonging to the Parsee community called Alibaug and several Parsee Fire Temples. On that occasion houses were broken into, furniture was recklessly smashed, and property of every description either stolen or utterly destroyed; many Parsees were seriously hurt, women and children were obliged to leave their homes terror-stricken on account of the outrages thus committed.

2. That since Friday this disgraceful rioting on the part of the Mahomedan rabble has been carried on in the neighbourhood of Dhobie Talao, Khetwady, and wherever there are residences of Parsees, thus showing that the disturbances is by no means quelled.

3. That not only has there been wanton spoliation and destruction of valuable private property belonging to Parsees during these riots, but several Fire Temples have been desecrated, their most sacred places have been forcibly entered, their sacred books have been seized, torn up, and thrown away. Full details of this disgraceful riot have been published in the daily newspapers. These do not by any means overstate the facts, and your Memorialists are now constrained by the urgency of the case, as the tumultuous feeling on the part of the ill-disposed members of the Mussulman Community does not appear to have subsided, to make an earnest representation on the subject to your Excellency in Council.

4. Your Memorialists are members of a community which has always been remarkable for their love of peace and good order and their loyalty and attachment to the British Government under whom they have so long enjoyed security of life and property. They feel sure, therefore, that when they represent to your Excellency in Council the sad consequences of the late serious riots by the Musulmans against Parsees, the matter will receive from Government that careful attention which its importance demands.

5. At this moment the whole Parsee community of Bombay is panic-stricken on account of this savage attack on their persons and property, many persons have been seriously wounded, and in some cases the results from injuries received have been fatal; valuable private property (such as clothes, furniture jewels, &c.) has been ruthlessly plundered and wantonly destroyed; many houses have been completely gutted and internally injured; wells belonging to Parsees have been polluted. So great is the excitement, that Parsees are afraid to leave their residences to go to their ordinary employments and avocations for fear of being molested and maltreated, and every Parsee household considers itself unsafe and unprotected.

6 Such being the present state of matters in Bombay, and in view of the length of time during which this serious riot has lasted it certainly justifies the apprehension entertained by many that the police are utterly unable to cope with the emergency which has presented itself; but however this may be, it unfortunately cannot be concealed that the Parsee community has lost all confidence in the efficiency of the police for the duty which is now imposed upon it.

7. Your Memorialists would draw attention here to certain injudicious remarks made by the Commissioner of Police in the presence of the Registrar of Bombay and several respectable Parsees, as quoted by Mr. J. M. Maclean in his letter published in the Bombay Gazette of the 16th instant. These remarks were as follows, and were made in reply to Mr. Byramjee Dadabhoy, the Registrar, informing the Commissioner that a Parsee have been killed, the Commissioner retorted.—"I am very glad of it, and I should like to see all Parsees killed."

Remarks like these at such a critical time have greatly annoyed the Parsees, and it is for your Excellency to judge whether the Parsee community can any longer safely rely on the co-operation and assistance of the police, whose chief has shown himself so prejudiced against them.

8. Your Memorialists have with regret to admit that in a few instances violent assaults have been made by some of the lower class of Parsees upon Mahomedans, but these are solitary cases, and were chiefly provoked in self-defence and in consequence of alarms which were raised as to the approach of the rioters in Parsee quarters; and considering that the Parsees were left in such circumstances quite defenceless by the police, it is not to be wondered at that in some few cases they should have been irritated to the commission of such assaults: but generally throughout this disturbance the Parsees have acted with forbearance and moderation, and if their principal streets and religious places are protected by strong military guards your Memorialists have every hope that confidence will soon be restored.

9. Another circumstance which invests the present state of matters with increased ground for apprehension is the near approach of the Mohurrum Festival, and your Memorialists would venture to bring this fact prominently before your Excellency's Government in the hope …

adopted for the protection of the Parsee community during the Mohurrum. There is a good ground for apprehension that the present excitement among the lower orders of the Mussulman population will be much increased during the approaching Mohurrum when it is well known the fanaticism of these men is roused to an extraordinary pitch.

10. It is hard to say what further outrages may not then be committed against Parsees: not only may further robberies, spoliation, and violence be expected, but desecration of more Fire Temples may take place, and even the Towers of Silence may be violated.

11. Your Memorialists therefore pray that immediate steps of a very decided character be taken to crush this disgraceful riot, and that during the continuance of the Mohurrum festival orders be issued that special protection be extended to the Parsee community by regular patrols of regimental soldiers and sowars being marched during day and night through the principal streets occupied by Parsees, and also that strong military guards be placed at the Parsee Fire Temples and the Towers of Silence, so that further such Temples may be averted, as nothing but the strong hand of Government will check the outrages may be at this crisis will prevent further mischief and bloodshed.—And your Memorialists as in duty bound shall ever pray.

No. 903 OF 1874.

Judicial Department.

From John Nugent, Esq., Acting Under Secretary to Government; to the Hon. Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy Bart, C.S.I.

Honourable Sir,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of the petition of the principal Parsee inhabitants residing in Bombay, forwarded with your letter of the 18th instant, to the address of His Excellency the Governor, and in reply to state that His Excellency in Council cannot but perceive that it was written before the measures of precaution and repression ordered by the Government had been carried into effect.

2. His Excellency much regrets that during disturbances, undoubtedly originating with individuals professing the Mahomedan religion, some lives, both of Parsees and Mahomedans, have been lost, valuable property belonging to Parsees has been destroyed, insults have been offered to their places of worship, and much alarm has been created. It must however be observed that no property has been destroyed since the suppression of the riot on the afternoon of Friday last, and that the subsequent disorders have been in some degree attributable to acts of retaliation on the part of the Parsees.

3. These outbreaks have occurred immediately before the commencement of the celebration of the ceremonies connected with the Mohurrum Festival, which have at all times an exciting effect on large bodies of this community, and the Government has therefore decided, with a view to the welfare of the whole community, that on this occasion no procession of any kind shall be permitted on the public streets of Bombay while the Mohurrum lasts.

4 There will be no interference with religious rites or ceremonies conducted within places of worship or in private premises.

5. The Government hopes that the military force which has been brought to Bombay will be sufficient to discourage any attempt at a violation of its orders, and certainly it will be sufficient to inflict severe punishment on those, of whatever class, who may commit further outrages.

6. His Excellency in Council is glad to learn that efforts are being made by the influential friends of both parties to remove mutual misunderstanding and to restore harmony between them.

7. Such efforts are entitled to the warmest approbation of the Government, and will, it is hoped, be frankly and honestly responded to by the heads of both communities.—I have, &c.,

(Signed) JOHN NUGENT.
Acting Under Secretary to Govt.

THE PROPOSED HISTORY OF THE RIOTS.

In consequence of the exceedingly liberal response which was made to our announcement yesterday that we intended to publish a compilation of the leaders, descriptions, &c., which have appeared in the Bombay Gazette since the outbreak of the riots if we secured a sufficient numbers of subscribers, we have determined to go on with the work. It may be more than a mere compilation, as we shall probably make it a continuous history of the recent disturbances, with an introduction of our own. In order to make it as complete as possible we have determined to delay its publication until after the Mohurrum, as there is no saying what the coming Mahomedan festival may bring forth.

A QUERY.

THE TREATMENT OF BONA-FIDE SECOND CLASS RAILWAY PASSENGERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—Lord Lawrence did a good deal to secure better treatment for third-class railway passengers Although the grievances of second-class passengers are not so great, yet they have just cause of complaint as I know by frequent experience. In some cases, there is only one second class carriage to a train, one half of which is usually empty, being reserved for ladies. Sometimes there are soldiers travelling. Each man has generally a cutty pipe, and in defiance of regulations the compartment is enveloped in smoke. On other occasions, one is favoured with the society of Portuguese waiters at refreshment rooms. In the train in which I write, a railway official has put his servant among the second class passengers. Our companion's ideas of propriety may be learned from the fact that he uses the venetian slide as a spittoon. When attempting, about midnight, to get a little sleep, I was completely foiled by the loud jabber of some petty railway officials with second-class passes. But the chief grievance is, that compartments are sometimes so crowded, that one cannot secure at night the easy position essential to ordinary comfort on a long journey. I was lately travelling in a compartment with eleven. The space available for each may easily be understood.

What is asked for is, that in night trains there should always be one compartment reserved for bona-fide second class passengers who have paid for their tickets. There should also be one reserved second-class carriage for soldiers, and others who now travel with second class passes.

It is hoped that the foregoing proposals will commend themselves to those entrusted with the management of railways in this country.

LODGE "ST. GEORGE."—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge—the aristocratic Lodge of Bombay, so to speak—was held on Tuesday evening at the Freemason's Hall, Mazagon, under the presidency of its courteous and popular Master, Wor. Bro. C. A. Winter. The chief work before the meeting, which was attended by many distinguished Masons, including the Provincial Grand Master under Scotland, was the installation of the Master Elect, Bro Dr. Knapp. The ceremony was performed by Wor. Bro. Andrew Hay, acting District Grand Master, assisted by Wor. Bro. Winter. The new Master then invested his officers with the jewels of their respective offices, with appropriate remarks to each on the nature of the duties appertaining to his office. Bro. W. J. Best was invested as Senior Warden, and Bro. W. Baker as Junior Warden. At the banquet, which was very liberally provided, the usual Masonic toasts were drunk. Wor. Bro. Winter received a due meed of praise on all hands for the efficiency and ability with which he had ruled over the Lodge for the past twelve months, and for the prosperous condition in which he made it over to his successor.

A LITTLE ROW ABOUT AN OLD TOOTH.—At the Small Causes Court on Tuesday the case of Dr. Fitzpatrick v. Mr. Shea came on. This was an action brought by the plaintiff, a Surgeon Dentist, for the recovery of Rs. 25, being the balance of a bill due for extracting a decayed tooth and putting in a substitute. The defendant pleaded not indebted. He contended that he was suffering from a decayed tooth, and went to the plaintiff to ask him to extract it and to put in a substitute. To the best of his belief the plaintiff said he would charge Rs. 25. The offending tooth was then removed and another put in. The defendant then paid Rs. 25, and considered the transaction as finally settled. On presentation of a subsequent bill for Rs. 25, as the balance of Rs. 50, as charged for extracting and supplying a new tooth, the defendant refused to pay, and the present suit was the result. Dr. Fitzpatrick argued that his charges for extracting a decayed tooth, for supplying a new one, and fixing it, amounted to Rs. 50. He acknowledged having received Rs. 25, and held that he was entitled to the price of the new tooth. A great deal of argument followed, during which His Honour the Judge suggested that if the new tooth was returned the plaintiff might withdraw the case. This the defendant declined doing, perhaps in consideration of possession being nine points of the law. His Honour awarded judgment with costs in favour of the plaintiff.

MORTUARY RETURN.—The total number of deaths registered during the week ending Tuesday, the 6th January, was 351, being 1 more than in the preceding week, 72 less than the total of the week ending 18th February 1874, and 12 less than the mean of the corresponding period in the previous five years. CHUTNEY PAPERS.

Author of Parisians, Via Dolorosa, &c., &c.)

VIII.

…ning, or rather afternoon, of the sham … Rufus Big met with another slight … he was riding to the bandstand to show himself to his friends and hear the music (the latter being quite the minor consideration.) The Byrnes were too fatigued with the morning's doings to be driven out by him in the phaeton.

The station had been a good deal annoyed lately by the frequent firing of fowling-pieces at all hours of the morning, the day, and even at night, and it was not known with certainty who were the disturbers of peace though many shrewd guesses were entertained.

As Rufus turned sharply round the corner of a milk bush hedge, which had entirely hidden his approach, he received a charge of No. 8 small shot—near to the cantle of the saddle on which he was sitting. At the same time Mad Charley, or Handsome Charley, (a captain in H. M.'s —— Foot,) cantered past him on his sturdy little shikar galloway, shouting out: "Hullo, Big, that was intended for me," and pulling round proceeded to assist Rufus to his house. He was not much hurt, as the shot was a long one.

The solution of all this mystery was as follows:—Handsome Charley, and Comely Dick, as they were called, had long been the best of friends. Both were rollicking, wild, unconventional fellows; both were great sportsmen, and indiscriminately called Handsomely and Comely or Mad Charley and Dick. They long had lived together. One day, while beating on either side of a sharp ridge covered with very thick jungle, where nothing could be seen below a height of six feet, Captain Dick received the contents of his friend's fowling-piece in such close proximity as to make him wince and writhe with pain, but not near enough to cause serious alarm. Instantly arose a fixed determination to punish the clumsiness, or rashness, of his friend. He therefore made no sign or noise save that of calling out in his most drawling tone, "A-ah, Charley, are you thaah? Whaah a-ah you?"

"Here! here, just above this rock! I've just had a snap at a hog deer," cheerily and triumphantly answered Charley.

"A-ah! Hold up your hand. I can't make you out."

"Here, on this side, man. . . A-ah, Wha-ah? Hold it up higher!" said Comely Dick, still burning for revenge for his own wounds, and quietly putting a cap on his gun. Those were not the days of breechloaders.

"There! Don't you see my hand yet?" "A little higher—that'll do," said Dick, taking steady aim at the hand, and at a sufficient distance (?) not to do a very serious injury.

Oh! ah ..... Curse you! Confound you What the d—! Can't you manage your piece better than that? You've shot me! I shant be able to write for a month. "A-ae! Yaas! I know it, I aimed at your hand. Took me for a hog-deer! Dear you, I shant be able to sit down for [illegible]"

It is needless to say that [illegible] episode led to a quarrel. The two wounded [illegible] tossed up" as to who was to remain in the h[illegible]ich they mutually lived, and who was to mo[illegible]n empty one next door.

They then parted, vowing revenge.

When both men were perfectly cured of their wounds, they watched each other's compounds, with the jealous care against any sort of trespass, for both kept poultry and goats. Charley had a flower garden also before his verandah.

It happened one morning that Dick saw one of Charley's large game-cocks nearly pick out the eyes and brain of one of his (Dick's) poor harmless snow-white well-fattened geese. The poor beast would never be fit for the table, besides the unwarranted and foul attack was most ungame-cock-like. It was more than patience or Dick could bear. So calling for his gun he peppered him of the ruddy comb before he could screech his cowardly paean of triumph. It was "cook a doodle d.....! and the coward was shut up summarily as he deserved.

Now, without enquiring into the details of the case, or ascertaining the amount of provocation on the part of his bully of a game-cock, Charley immediately sat down in his verandah and shot every fowl that he saw scratch up or eat some new flower seeds which he had lately planted in his aforesaid garden.

Dick felt that this was unjust, as the nursery ought to have been protected by a trellis-work railing all round. He intimated as much in a very surly letter.

Charley had the trellis made—to have "the law on his side." A game-cock, No. 2, in the meantime, wand with a prize of books on Civil and Mechanical Engineering of the value of Rs. 150, has been awarded to Bamanji Sorabji, of Poona Civil Engineering College, he having obtained the highest number of marks in the examination for the Degree of L.C.E., and having been also specially recommended by the Examiners in Engineering and Engineering Drawing.

The Munguldass Nathoobhoy Travelling Fellowship — This Fellowship has remained vacant since the resignation of the last incumbent. The vacancy was announced for competition in January 1873, but no candidate has yet come forward.

The Manockjee Limjee Gold Medal.—The subject announced for the essay for this medal last year was "The Demonology of Western India." Two essays were sent in, but, neither of them having been found worthy of the medal, it was not awarded.

The Homjee Cursetjee Prize.—Six competitive poems on the subject o "Akbar" were sent in, but, none of them having been found worthy of the prize, it was not awarded.

Holloway's Pills.—Liver and Stomach.—Hot weather with chilly mornings and evenings always produces derangement of the digestive and assimilating organs, which demands early attention. For the speedy cure of indigestion nothing equals Holloway's Pills. They have long been recognised both at home and abroad as the safest and most effectual remedy for sick headache, nervousness, pains in the stomach, flatulency, biliousness, nausea, simple and bilious diarrhœa, dysentery, dry skin, and torpid bowels. Holloway's Pills protect the system from the deleterious effects of malaria and variable temperatures, thus proving themselves most valuable at this season, when the organs of digestion are most sorely tried. They may be advantageously taken, without hindrance to business or pleasure.

SCARCITY IN THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES.

THE following Supplementary Rules have been made by the Lieutenant-Governor, in continuation of those published in June last, for giving effect to the Land Improvement Act :—

1. District officers will take measures for explaining to zemindars and cultivators, in tracts where Kutcha wells can be sunk and are needed, that they are ready to grant advances for the construction of new, and the repair of the old kutcha wells, and district officers are hereby authorized to make, for these purposes, liberal advance of tuccavee without interest, the repayment of which may be spread over six years if required. All such advances should be reported to the Board for confirmation.

2. The district officer is empowered to make such advances, up to the limit (in the first instance) of Rs. 2,000, he considers are urgently required, forwarding monthly to the Commissioner a list of the advances made, and reporting on the condition of the tracts to which the above provisions have extended.

3. Should the district officer anywhere see any reason to anticipate that a larger sum than the above may be profitably expended in such advances, he should report to the Board for sanction.

4. These rules are of temporary application, and extend only to the end of the current official year, but expiration of which period, if it is still considered necessary to continue these advances without interest, application, giving the reasons which necessitate continuance of the concession, should be sent to the Board.

FALL OF CARTHAGENA.

(Concluded from yesterday's "Bombay Gazette")

NEVER shall I forget that melancholy mo through the lonely and silent city, once so s the busy hum of life and the bustle of t fresh sunlight poured brightly down, b brought the desolation of the scene into compl rious light. It shone upon ruin. The streets were deserted, the houses shut; there was not a sound but the fall of our own footsteps on the pavement and their echo. The effect, even upon me, an entire stranger to the place, and one accustomed to uncanny spectacles was depressing in the extreme. Hardly a habitation we passed but had suffered. Here there was a crack in a wall, there a gaping chasm in a roof, balconies were twisted awry in bewildering tangle, and depending in crooked festoons from the house-fronts, the sidepaths were ripped up and covered with debris, and the entire middle of the thoroughfare glistened with minute particles of crystal from shattered windows. There were rents and fissures in the soil as if an earthquake had lately wrought its ravages there. Shells that had not exploded were to be seen still lying in the gutters, and wide spaces yawned at every half-dozen yards—the graves of shells that had burst. Everywhere we turned the same sight met our view. The fetid, flattened carcasses of cats and dogs, dead for weeks, littered the ground. On one street corner an immense placard, advertising a nostrum for the "extermination of calenturas (intermittent fevers) in four-and-twenty hours," stared down from a dilapidated angle of masonry, battered down by a projectile in four-and-twenty seconds. On numerous houses foreign flags hung idly out. On many doors were pasted scraps of paper announcing that those premises had been opened by the Sovereign Junta, or that the property therein had been incautada (taken possession of till the owner reclaimed it), or that the keys were to be had from So-and-So in Such-a-Place. Our first thought naturally was to visit Mr. Milvain's house in the Plaza de Cabballos. We were all three hungry, and he had held forth promise of a breakfast on jugged hare—which he had left behind him when the English evacuated Carthagena. But Mr. Milvain had counted without the Sovereign Junta. They had forced his house and his larder, and all that had escaped them was a jar of pickles and a box of Durham mustard. But his plate and valuables were safe, and he had no more losses to deplore than such as were caused by one playful bomb, which had crushed through the ceiling of his kitchen, and another, which had effected a passage into his wife's boudoir. The wayward destructiveness of the latter was remarkable. Entering the pretty room we saw over the piano a jagged embrasure in an oval gilt frame; there it was the shell had introduced itself, smashing a glass, dislodging a chandelier, and cracking the mirrored front of a wardrobe opposite, and then disappearing, as if glutted with its work. The piano was uninjured, the score of Lucia di Lammermoor still lay open on the stand, statues of the Saviour and the Virgin, that flanked the smashed glass, [illegible] injured too, and under the shivered remnants of [illegible]ndelier lay a dust covered copy of the life of "[illegible]st, the Parish Boy." From Mr. Milvain's we we[illegible] the lieutenant's house. On the road we saw [illegible]ere traces of the same horrid handiwork; some of the narrow side-streets were impassable. I was arrested by two striking sights before arriving at the Gate of San[illegible]osé. A huge gun, of 21 centimetres calibre, lay in the middle of the road, dismounted by a shot; beside it the broken carriage; and on a hoarding near was the last play-bill put up at Carthagena, and which set forth that the Siege of Saragossa was to be produced in the Bull-ring, with extraordinary effects, by Mr. Antonio, of Price's Circus, Madrid. The walls near the San Jose Gate were pierced in a regular succession of spots, and, when we got outside we could see that the scarp of the fortification was literally pockpitted. Santa Lucia was as desolate as Carthagena. We knocked at the door of the lieutenant's house. "Nobody lives here," said a little boy, putting his head out of window. "Open," said the lieutenant. The door was opened, and we entered. The house had been free of shells, but a family of sixteen had coolly squatted in it. "What do you want?" said the female in possession. "It is a loyal house; it belongs to a lieutenant of Carabineros." "I am the man," said our friend. From this point we could see the port, a splendidly secure inlet grasped by winding hills. It was lonely. The Mendez Nunez was there; the funnel, steam anchor, and ragged top of a black wreck could be seen over the bright waters—that was the Tetuan. Beside it were visible the masts of a sunken felucha, and at the other side of the harbour were moored three or four small merchant craft, spoils of the Murcian canton. We got back into the city and went to the house of Don Manuel Pico, where we were hospitably asked to breakfast. In the shop below, while we were waiting, a woman entered to buy sugar and offered a Cantonal dollar in payment. The shopman gave her the sugar, but refused to take the money. "That's no longer any good," he said. You should have seen her look of gratitude when I gave her an ordinary dollar for it. "God will pay you," she said, in the beautiful Spanish phrase. This woman, and all whom I saw, who had remained within during that ferocious bombardment, had a wild, scared look about the eyes, and spoke hysterically. Our breakfast was not luxurious. We had good brown bread, good wine, and a few fried eggs. We were shown in Manuel Pico's house samples of the grain ground on the premises from which the siege rations were made. It was Algerian, and not bad at all. The mill-wheel had been smashed by a projectile. By this hour the advance guard had arrived, and the men were reconnoitering the place, and seeking their billets. We passed again into the main street, which was beginning to show some animation. It was now half-past one o'clock. There was a movement towards the Madrid Gate, the news having spread that the troops were about to make their entry. By degrees the people appeared to pluck up courage; a few doors were opened; little knots formed here and there; one or two adventurous hawkers set up their standings, and were selling nuts, stockfish, and chick peas; but still the town wore its melancholy, half-dead-and-alive aspect. Hastening in the same direction as the crowd, not more than fifty persons in all, I was in time to see the leaves of the gate thrown back. The guard formed up at either side and presented arms, the captain held his sword upright before him, the bugler blew a blast, and four horsemen entered with naked sabres in their hands, two of them, mounted civil guards, in front, and two dragoons behind. There was an interval of about fifty paces and then came a company of cazadores in open order at a swing trot. Another interval, and a phalanx of horsemen advanced four abreast, a single officer in front. It was General Lopez Dominguez with Brigadier Carmona and their united staffs, numbering about sixty officers of different branches of the service, and different grades—aides-de-camp, brigade majors, members of the staff corps, surgeons—and in the midst of them one civilian, who was pointed out to me as the representative of a Madrid newspaper. The entire troop of cavaliers was in full gala dress, with decorations glittering on their breasts, sashes displayed, and parade housings on their horses. They looked eagerly right and left, to note the damages their own shells had made. Like a vivid picture in a panorama turned to life the cortege rapidly passed, horses neighing, sabres clashing, and hoofs clattering on the cobble stones of the street. There was not a single cry of welcome heard, not a single yard of bunting flaunted; a few women peeped furtively from windows with the curtains timidly drawn aside; and a few curious bystanders lifted their hats. As the mass of showy horsemen went shimmering by my name was sung out, and my friend, Trinidad del Rey, turned over to salute me. "Come along," he cried "to the Fonda Francesa." Hardly [illegible] the staff disappeared up the street when a new ru[illegible]avaliers was heard, and in serried sections came cl[illegible]long, with swords drawn and pennons dancing [illegible]me 400 troopers, civil guards, huscars, cha[illegible]ners—picked men of the cavalry employed [illegible] There was about twenty minutes' int[illegible]r this exciting canter, and then to th[illegible]fantry bugles, entered the foot, co[illegible]nies of every corps outside, cazad[illegible] engineers, carabinieros, and [illegible] umphal entry" had been effe[illegible]

I have seen triumphal ent[illegible] sent when the Italian troops [illegible] of Ancona under groves o[illegible] thusiastic evviras. That w[illegible] when the solid stolid Ger[illegible], with bullet-riddled colours, trample in all[illegible]xultation down the champs Elysees. That was [illegible]e. But this was simply lugubrious. The[illegible]assed up to the Plaza de la Soberania—co[illegible] not follow him—and subsequently [illegible]ital de la Caridad, and reviewed t[illegible]gorria and Iberis. As I strolle[illegible]Fonda Francesa, I met Mr. W[illegible]otain Pauli, and a couple of [illegible]ne in after the general, [illegible] of the province, Senor [illegible] green girdle with gold [illegible]d entered too, and was [illegible]llowed by the new ayuntamiento across Knights. They had [illegible]each them the line of duty [illegible]w when such an emergency [illegible] the Fonda I could hear the [illegible]on the Muralla del Mar. [illegible]e streets, officers of the rebel[illegible]g about impudently, with their persons, prating of the [illegible]ade, and their brethren who [illegible] shook hands with and em[illegible]pona. I saw a group of the [illegible] the convicts—grimy, hard-[illegible]onversing in a corner. The [illegible]had landed—three war ships [illegible]beth, the Italian Roma, and the French Alma, had steamed into the haven before eleven of the morning—and were doing the bombarded town, the flaxen-haired Germans sticking themselves into the foremost rank, as usual. They are alive to the importance of impressing on ignorant foreigners that they have power by sea as by land. Later sailed over from Perman the Lord Warden, the Torch, and the Research, with the Italian frigate San Martino, and another German frigate, and the long-forsaken port looked its old self again. Admiral Yelverton rowed on shore. I met the brawny crew that manned his gig, and learned from them that the Numancia had not been caught by the Spanish fleet. Those British tars had a profound reverence for the Spanish fleet. But they wished "they'd been and got the office to catch the Numancia; that's all." In the evening Lopez Pinto arrived, and took up his position as military governor. A couple of Chicarro's ships came back with the Darro and one thousand rebels as prize, and the Government cavalry returned to their quarters in the camp. No prisoners were made inside the city. The volunteers hastened to give up their arms and put aside their Phrygian caps, and one small shoe-black ventured out on the Calle de la Marina Espanola with his box of tools under his arm. Carthagena began to be something faintly like the Carthagena of yore.—Standard, January 20.

CAPTAIN MAUNSELL.

THERE were probably few persons in civil life who read unmoved the statement of Captain Maunsell, made, not in justification of an assault on his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, but of his own motives in committing it in order to obtain what he must consider as a comforting publicity for the recital of his wrongs. We confess that with every desire to do him full justice we have not the smallest sympathy for the man who could be guilty of so gross an outrage. The medical officer who examined him declared he perceived no trace of insanity about the prisoner, who was duly committed to take his trial at the Old Bailey for an assault on the Commander-in-Chief. That may be so, and Mr. Newton was no doubt compelled to commit him, as the case was not one of ordinary assault which would justify the Magistrate in inflicting summary punishment. But we cannot help thinking that there was in Captain Maunsell's mind such a sense of wrong and injustice as affected his appreciation of facts and disturbed his intellect in the contemplation of things as they were, as well as of the results of the deed he felt forced to commit. He could not possibly believe that by committing an assault upon the person of the Royal Duke, to whom he declared he felt no ill-will, he would be restored to the Army and receive the brevet rank he coveted. He could not imagine that he would be replaced in such a position, that the disappointment inflicted on him by the successive promotion of officers over his head, of which he complained as senior subaltern of the 82nd Foot, would be remedied, the mode he adopted of calling attention to his case has about it all the evidence of the act of a man who, by long brooding over real or imaginary wrongs has warped his judgement and his sense of justice. Captain Maunsell himself must have been well aware, had he reflected for a moment, that the Duke of Cambridge was not responsible for the wrongs of which he complained, and that his evil fortune or ill-luck, or whatever else it may have been which led to his sufferings, was attributable solely to the working of the Queen's Regulations, and to the system under which the Army was then administered when he deliberately selected it as a profession. He was senior Lieutenant of the 82nd Regiment from May 15, 1865, to May 29, 1869 when he obtained his half-pay company without purchase. In the operations against the Gwalior Contingent, at Cawnpore, when Windham was placed in great jeopardy, Lieutenant Maunsell seems to have acted with an energy and courage which were certainly not derived from a servile imitation of the conduct of some of his superior officers. He volunteered for every scene of active service, and it must, no doubt, have been exceedingly galling to him to have seen his juniors pass over his head to their companies because he had not the money to purchase his step. He considered, moreover, that he was entitled to a company as a reward for his services. During the time he was senior Lieutenant one company only was absorbed, and that was in succession to Major and Brevet-Colonel Thomson, who received the half-pay Lieutenant-Colonelcy without purchase, and was succeeded by Brevet-Major Jarvis a seconded officer, whose vacancy was therefore not filled up. That was in October, 1866; and the War Office view of the case is that even if there had not been a supernumerary Captain then, Lieutenant Maunsell could not well have been promoted, as his service of thirteen and a half years would hardly have given him any right to the step, inasmuch as, according to strict rule, the vacancy should have been filled from the half-pay List. It is, indeed, provided by Clause 37 of the Royal Warrant of the 27th December, 1870, that on the restoration to full pay of an officer he may receive Brevet promotion up to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, provided he has been passed over for promotion to the Brevet rank of Major, in succession to a general officer deceased while upon half pay. But Captain Maunsell at the date of his retirement, on July 3, 1872, was not, it is said, entitled to this promotion, as Captains of 1856 were at that time only receiving their
